About Me

At heart, I am a problem solver, creative, kind, and cooperative; this amongst other things are some of the many reasons I love to help people. In my spare time I find that learning languages, reading, playing instruments are some of the things I love to do - specially drawing! I've lived in three different countries which has helped me learn to adapt, be flexible and appreciate every opportunity that comes my way to learn more. Throughout life it has become clear to me that I have a passion for learning and for knowledge, which I feel is helped due to my open-minded personality. Furthermore, after learning new things I can be very avid about them and want to learn more about these topics.
