Seeking new opportunities

An enthusiastic and outgoing professional who enjoys working both independently and with others. Several years experience in teaching, customer service, sales and hospitality who is in search of developing their career and skills further. A British, Spanish, Moroccan, I grew up in London in a multicultural environment and am able to bring an international feel to your company.

I take great pride in doing things well, learning quickly and having no problem being left alone to carry out my responsibilities. In search of opportunities that are able to challenge me and lead to me being able to become a great asset to the team.
